Re: application for the position of Marketing and Event Coordinator – Private Bank and Wealth Management, Geneva

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to apply for the Marketing and Event Coordinator position within your Private Bank and Wealth Management team in Geneva. With a Bachelor's degree in Digital Marketing and Communication and four years of experience in brand activation, event coordination and campaign delivery for premium and luxury brands, I am eager to bring my organisational rigour and creativity to a team that delivers conferences, investment outlooks, roundtable dinners and lifestyle experiences for a highly discerning clientele.

At BRANDAID in Dubai, I managed brand campaigns and activations for luxury houses from concept to post-campaign reporting: defining mechanics and key messages, coordinating influencers and ambassadors, acting as the day-to-day interface between creative and digital teams, agencies and external suppliers, and keeping briefs, timelines and deliverables on track. This taught me to deliver flawless, brand-consistent activity under tight deadlines while juggling multiple stakeholders with very different expectations.

Previously, over more than three years at EPONA in Lausanne, I coordinated the brand's presence at sponsored events, produced print and digital collateral, planned e-mailing and direct-mail campaigns to segmented client lists, and managed the editorial calendar across all channels. I also handled budgets, contracts and invoicing, event logistics and VIP hospitality, and built the reporting used to evaluate each initiative. Earlier roles within a Geneva school and the cantonal population office gave me a strong foundation in accurate administration and in working within strict policies and procedures, which I consider essential in a regulated financial-services environment.

Fluent in French, English and Arabic and based in Geneva, I am comfortable engaging with international clients, speakers and partners, and I take particular care over the accuracy and tone of every communication. Fully proficient in PowerPoint, Word and Excel, I am used to adapting pitch materials, invitations and on-site schedules quickly and precisely. My personal interest in fine watchmaking, photography and equestrian sport also gives me a genuine affinity with the lifestyle themes that resonate with HNW and UHNW audiences.

Although my background is in luxury and lifestyle marketing rather than private banking, I am highly motivated to develop my understanding of wealth management products and client needs, and I would welcome the opportunity to contribute Barclays' values of Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence and Stewardship in everything I deliver. I would be delighted to discuss how my experience can support your marketing strategy for Switzerland and Europe.

Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours faithfully,

Ghizlane Lachenal
